

Final Bouts In Annual Assault Stage At Union

Close Fights Feature Many Boxing Contests.

McDONALD COLLEGE SHOWS GOOD FORM

Porteous Scores Knock-out in 147 Pound Class

The College wrestling and boxing champions were decided on Saturday night in the Union Ball Room before a large enthusiastic crowd. There were nine wrestling bouts, while the leather-pushers appeared only seven times.

The B.W. & F. Club always get their meets away in fine style and there is no doubt that considerable enthusiasm was aroused this time. At times the bouts got so fast that the crowd were unable to remain quiet any longer and began to cheer roundly for one man or another, and especially was this true in two of the boxing bouts.

One Knock-out

Strange as it seems there was only one knock-out recorded by the mitt-men. There were times, however, in a couple of bouts that it seemed certain that someone was going to be laid in a horizontal position. And as far as that goes two of the fights were so close that Bert Light finds it impossible to pick his team from those weights without another scrap. This applies in the case of the MacGregor-Craig bout, and the Robertson-Greenblatt fracas.

Mac Men Good

The good showing of several boys from MacDonald College caused quite a bit of comment during the evening, and undoubtedly their efforts are going to help build a powerful intercollegiate team this year. Especially is this true in the wrestling squad.

The winners of each class, whether boxing or wrestling, are to be congratulated. They only attained their positions through constant practice, and strict training. A great deal will be expected of them in the next three weeks, and every precaution will be taken to see that they remain on top.

Practices Continue

Practices are to be continued for both squads at the regular hours, and both the winners and the losers are encouraged to be on hand every time. As has already been stated several of the bouts were so close that more fights will be necessary. Already a meet with the Y.M.C.A. is being arranged for the grapplers, and the mitt-men are taking on the C.N.R. on Tuesday.

The following is the resume of the fights in the order they happened on Saturday night.

- Results
1. Wrestling 155 lbs. Putman vs. Gibb-Gibb by two falls.
 2. Wrestling 112 lbs. Cohen vs. Coplan-Coplan by one fall.

Students To Pose For McGill Annual To-day

Photos include Typical Scenes In Various Buildings

Camera Man Will Descend On Famous "Pig"

THE Carnagio Foundation of America is reported to be in Montreal for the purpose of making a complete investigation into the conditions which prevail on the McGill Campus. A continent wide survey is now being made from which, when complete, the foundation hopes to make another of its startling reports.

Arrangements have been made for the posting of a camera man in the Main Lobby of the Arts Building, the upper lobby of the Science Building, the dining room of the R.V.C., the Daily Office and the well-known tavern on McGill College.

Arts Men Pose

The Arts men will pose for their photograph at 10:00 this morning. The Science students will be snapped at 11:00, the co-eds at lunch at 1:00 and the Daily staff at work at 3:30 this evening. Just when the descent is to be made on the famous Pig is unknown but it is reported that all precautions are being taken to prevent hurried exit from the various windows.

It is hoped to gain from these photos a real insight into the effect of female companionship on the Arts students as against the lonely lives of the engineers. Some unsympathetic persons have gone so far as to assert that the Annual Board is behind the scenes.

Suicide Discovered By Commerce Skiers

Man Found Strangled Near Observation Platform

The skiing expedition of two Commerce men on the Mt. Royal Mountain yesterday morning culminated in the discovery of a gruesome suicide. Bryce Grayson-Bell and Harry Boyce were enjoying a morning's outing on the slopes of the mountain near the observation platform, when suddenly, in their line of vision a limp huddled figure appeared. On closer observation they espied the body of a strangled man lying on a tree. The McGill men hastened to report their grave discovery to the Mountain Police who immediately got in touch with the morgue.

Near Look-out

The body of the deceased was found at a distance of about fifty yards from the observation platform. There was nothing in the victim's pocket nor anything about him by which he could be identified. The man was six feet one inch tall and weighed one hundred and eighty pounds. His face was clean shaven and his hair brown. His age is estimated between forty and fifty years.

When found he was wearing a brown overcoat and a grey suit. Nothing more could be obtained from the officials of the morgue and until last night, his identity, or the motive for the suicide was as yet still a mystery.

R.V.C. Undergrad

An important executive meeting will be held tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the Common Room of the Arts Building.

Prof. Du Roure Compared With Thomas Quincey

(From Le Quartier Latin, By Exchange Service)

About a hundred years ago an English writer, Thomas de Quincey placed assassination among the fine Arts; and only recently M. Rene du Roure, Professor of French Literature at McGill University has proclaimed ennoblement a virtue.

Quincey, suffering from the hallucinations of an opium eater, had a morbid imagination while M. du Roure is a sound-minded professor and his apology for snobbery has not been without surprise for us.

Snobbery is one of the worst forms of pride. It is a desire to distinguish one's self by all sorts of extrinsic subterfuge. We would like to think that M. du Roure was misinterpreted by the reporters.

Fur Trading In North Outline

Lantern Slides Illustrate Lecture in Moyse Hall

PROF. MACDERMOTT

Trading of Rhum With Indians Almost Brings Disaster

The development of the Fur Trade in the North was outlined, and illustrated with lantern slides by Professor MacDermott of the Department of History, yesterday afternoon in the Moyse Hall.

The speaker pointed out the frequent unscrupulousness in the dealings of both political and commercial rivals for the trade, as when a company of fur laden canoes bound for English trading centres were intercepted, and the savages persuaded to part with their furs for foreign currencies.

Bitter Times

Those were the bitter times, prior to the merging of the North West Company and the Hudson's Bay Company. The natives at first received for their furs, necessities such as blankets, knives, clothing. As the competition became keener, the less scrupulous traders made full use of the natives' desire for rum and the consumption of alcohol swelled with abominable consequence to the Indians.

Indian Protest

There followed an Indian protest against the demoralization of their people, and an attempt to exterminate by massacre the traders. Perhaps this plan might have had very serious effects had not the Indians themselves been attacked by an epidemic of small-pox that swept among them.

Some amusing accounts of social life were revealed from the diary of Peter Pond, who was convinced of the existence of a passage through the Great Lakes to the North Western Sea. Pond drew an elaborate map to

Sale Of Tickets For Plumbers' Ball Open

Will Hold Annual Affair February 14th

At last! The long awaited hour has arrived, for to-day the sale of tickets for the coming Plumbers' Ball to be held on February 14, at the Mount Royal Hotel, is thrown open to the whole college. Indeed, this is a very broad statement for the reporter was told that so few tickets remained unsold that the Plumbers would be practically the only ones privileged to attend.

It seems that this year the committee have decided to make their function even more exclusive than ever. When asked whether more tickets would be available upon the exhaustion of the original three hundred, the answer was that positively no more would be issued and although it was unfortunate that some would be disappointed, one member pointed out that in such a case the aspiring student would only have his own tardiness to blame for failure in attempting to procure a pasteboard from Harry.

Nature Is Not Fundamentally Only Of Matter

Grammar and Literature is Compared With Science and Reality

CRITICAL QUERIES

Dr. Brown of Yale College Speaks at Y.M.C.A. Forum

"Nature is not fundamentally matter but fundamentally spirit" said Dr. W. T. Brown of Yale College at the Y.M.C.A. Forum yesterday afternoon. The subject of his address was "Through Nature to Reality" and was the first of the second part of a series entitled, "The Aesthetic Pathway to Reality." Dr. Brown, previous to his Professorship of Religion at Yale College, was on the staff of Victoria College, of Toronto University.

Man on Planet

"It is the existence of man upon this planet that has caused this humanity to search for a religion beyond nature" said the speaker. Further, there are three different relations between man and nature; first, that man was a child of nature and no study of nature could exclude the study of human nature; second, that man found himself a home in nature and grew up in his endeavor to deal with it, his emotional life was urged by his contact with nature. Taking the instinct of sex he had built up the family and his natural self interest had been practically sublimated in the creation of the state and in industry. Lastly, by three manifestations, man had shown that he had risen superior to nature, man is conscious, nature is unconscious.

Chemica' Club Visits Factory

Manufacture of Lacquers and Paints Investigated

On Friday afternoon the Chemical Club visited the Canada Paint Company's plant on William St. The plant consists of two independent sections, the dry colour works and the lacquer plant.

The dry colour works was the first one to be visited. Here the students were taken through the plant and the processes for the manufacture of the different pigments or dry colours were explained to them.

Chemicals Act

The pigments are made by causing one or more chemicals to act on another. This is carried out in large wooden tanks holding some fifteen thousand gallons of water and producing a ton of pigment at one time. After the chemicals are well mixed the product is allowed to settle out, leaving a clear solution above it. This is run off and the product is washed with water.

After the wash water is drained off the product is pumped to filter presses. The partially dry pigment is then removed from the presses and dried for twenty-four hours in hot air ovens. This dry material is then ground to a fine powder, and packed ready for shipment.

Lacquer Department

From the dry colour works the students proceeded to the lacquer department. Here they were met by the superintendent who gave a short talk on the elements of lacquer making.

The manufacture of lacquer is of recent date. It had its beginning in the discovery of nitrocellulose as a base. The lacquer consists essentially of three components: a base, suitable pigments, and oils. The base, as its name implies, forms the film, which provides the protective factor of the lacquer, the pigments give the lacquer its radiant colours and the oils make the whole more adhesive to smooth surfaces. A thorough explanation of the action of these factors together with those of necessary organic solvents was given.

Next Decade To Witness Period Of Settlement

Lost Ten Years Have Seen Enthusiasm Slackening for British Empire

NATIONALISM KEEN

Idea of Wider Commonwealth Must Be Welded Into British Scheme

"If we escape another world conflagration the next decade will witness a period of greater settlement," said Mr. S. K. Ratcliffe in introducing his subject "The Next Ten Years" at the People's Forum last night. "Since the close of the War we have witnessed many events which formerly would have been spread over several years. Prominent among these happenings has been a transformation of the political systems of Europe.

Ten Years.

"In the next ten years we will see whether Soviet Russia can succeed; how the U.S.A. will take a prominent part in world affairs; and what will be the destiny of the British Commonwealth."

"Since the close of the war imperial governments of Russia, Germany and Austria-Hungary have fallen. France was the only European nation of importance which did not experience a revolution. The British throne is the only first class throne left. Monarchies in the Scandinavian countries and in Belgium are merely hereditary presidencies of democratic nations. In others like Italy and Spain the sovereigns have submitted to dictatorship. In the ten years, since the declaration of Armistice one country after the other in Europe has shown an immense power of revival.

Nationalization

"The British Labour government is an urban and industrial party and yet it clings along with the labouring class to the old worn-out policy of nationalization. MacDonald announces that he will establish a national council. However, nationalization will have to be changed to rationalization. We have a depressed working class and a defeated employing class both clinging to decadent beliefs. The latter cannot see that an increased purchasing power of the producers is necessary for prosperity.

"In Europe there is a national belief in the future, the acceptance of a new philosophy of industry and evidence of a social motive, all of which is lacking in Britain. In the older industrial regions of the North and Midlands is to be seen the disquieting fact that Britain does not believe in work. However, the growth of new trades in the South will tend to transform the industrial position of Britain. The newer decentralized trades cannot save England, however, without the revival of the older industries. In the future the latter will be necessary. The future the latter will be relatively less important.

General Smuts

"General Smuts is an illustration of the Empire's opportunities. Thirty years ago he was the Empire's enemy and since then he played a large part in the development of South Africa.

G. Mode Wins Spoon In Rifle Competition

Prize Donated By McGill C. O. T. C.

On the afternoon of Saturday, February 1st, the indoor Rifle Club held a C.O.T.C. Spoon Handicap match in the range of the Montreal High School. This match gives an opportunity of winning a spoon to men who do not average very high scores. A handicap is added to his score to find his standing for the match.

The Shoot was won by G. S. Mode who shot a 90, which with his handicap of 15 gave a total of 105.

The silver spoon given as the prize has been very kindly donated by the McGill C.O.T.C.

The scores and handicaps of the match were as follows:

G. S. Mode, 90+15=105; W. F. Thomas, 94+10=104; J. A. Harris, 93+10=103; J. D. Spring, 93+10=102; E. R. Wykes, 94+7=101; S. Kwauk, 95+5=100; J. A. Ogilvy, 95+4=100; R. DeMontigny, 95+4=99; N. I. Fraser, 92+6=98; P. P. Foran, 92+5=97; K. E. Cousens, 91+5=96; G. E. Beatty, 90+4=94; O. Deltun, 78+15=93; W. H. Seaton, 85+6=91; D. B. Evans, 85+5=90; R. D. Harris, 74+15=89.

Hat Trick System To Be Employed In Com. Debates

OWING to special examinations and supplements, the Commerce '31 debate series has been postponed until next week. The speakers, Audet and Taylor will uphold a motion regarding favourable British Immigration policy as opposed to that of a central European policy. Opposition are, Voligny, Gerard, Gerry, and Collins.

In the second contest, the hat trick system will be used, four speakers picking their own topics. The subject will be chosen when the four pick one of the suggested topics, on the Saturday before the Debate.

The speakers for the second debate next Monday will be Altner and Barclay, who will oppose Bell and How.

The debates are held in Room 30, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Perfection Of Intellect Leads To Immortality

Maimonides Taught in His "Guide To The Perplexed"

CONTRAST DRAWN

Mendelsohn Introduced Jews to European Culture and Learning

Michael Garber in his symposium of the life of Moses Maimonides before the Maccabean Circle said that this medieval philosopher organized and classified Talmudic learning so as to make intelligible even to other creeds. Maimonides' God was a God even purer than spirit. Maimonides taught that only through intellectual perfection could one attain immortality. In all his writings he strove to reconcile religion and philosophy.

Mr. Harvey Golden then spoke on the German Jewish philosopher, Moses Mendelsohn. Mendelsohn stands out because he led the Jewish youth to drink at the wells of non-Jewish learning. His achievements however, are marred by a certain amount of "ghetto inferiority complex."

Debaters Elected

The meeting opened with an election of two debaters to represent the Circle in the annual debate with the Menorah Society of Toronto University. Kline and Lewis were chosen as the Circle's representatives, and Nathaniel Levi was elected substitute.

Mr. Michael Garber then proceeded with his address on Maimonides. His first great work was "The Missioner," a commentary of thirteen dogmas of belief. In his next and greatest work he built up a complex system of Jewish law and principles of belief in fourteen divisions.

Talmud a Preface

This work met considerable criticism for it reduced the Talmud to a preface. To us he is mostly known for his "Guide to the Perplexed," an attempt to find relation between philosophy and Judaism. He taught that man through his instinct and reason can come to a clear understanding of God, and through intellectual perfection attain immortality through the working of the imagination man can gain a prophetic vision. Moses, however, was a different kind of prophet; he was a prophet in direct contact with God. The Torah, therefore as a revelation of God is infallible.

Contrasts Philosophers

Mr. Harvey Golden opened with a contrast of the two philosophers. Maimonides he said "was the product of a healthy and vigorous period." He made no apologies for the Jew. What he did to show the nearness of the ideals of non-Jewish and Jewish philosophy.

Mendelsohn was the product of his time a period when the Jew tied with numerous restrictions. In all his writings he continually apologises and shows a "ghetto inferiority complex."

"Witch" Cast To Be Announced this Week

Two Actors Rehearse for Each Role

Rehearsals for "The Witch," the Players' Club spring vehicle that been going on for the last few weeks with a double cast, two actors being assigned to each role.

The casting committee decided that rehearsing the play with different people for the same role would enable them to decide the best person, and the final cast will be announced before the week is over, giving ample time for the selection of the best actors suited to depict the difficult characters which are the main difficulty of the play.

The cast calls for some twenty-five speaking roles, with numerous extras for mob scenes.

Study Group

"Minimum Wage and Workmen's Compensation Legislation" will be the subject under discussion at the meeting of Prof. Coote's Study Group which takes place this evening in the General Secretary's office of the S.C.A.

Claims Glasgow Co-Eds Ugly In Face, Figure And Mind; Lacking In Humour, Judgment And Taste

GLASGOW, Feb. 1.—The women students of Queen Margaret College, the Gorton of Glasgow University, are merely amused by the attack which has been made upon them in the current issue of the university magazine under the pseudonym of "A Broke Man."

The writer, discrediting the admission of women students to the new union of the university, refers to them as "Q Emmas" and says: "Q Emmas are ugly in face, form, and mind. They have no humor, no initiative, no originality, no love for beauty, no taste in dress, no ability in the writing of verse, no idea of food, no religious beliefs, no discernment where men are concerned."

"No aptitude for any serious study, no judgment in wine and tobacco, no delight in music, no taste for art, no

Statues To Wars.

NEWSPAPERS report that in Jugoslavia they are erecting a monument to the student who started the War. In our ignorance we had always thought that the people who deserved monuments and other such commemorations were those who stopped the War but it seems that the Slavs think differently. To us the War was something horrible, something awful, and we would never think of erecting a monument to the man who started it. But if we were to start erecting monuments to men who had started wars who knows where we would stop?

After perpetuating many men, and probably just as many women, in marble and clay we could turn to those who started wars other than those between different nations. First and foremost would come a statue to the man and woman who started all the modern domestic wars introducing the idea of marriage. Then would come a monument to those captains of industry and leaders of trade unions who have precipitated the many industrial wars. And then of course hazing of freshmen may be called a war and the bright sophomores who originated the idea would constantly look down upon the results of their labours from a serene and lofty marble height.

Of course the many athletic wars would not be forgotten in the general rush to erect something to somebody. And what of chess? This game is in itself a miniature of war and surely the originator of it deserves some mention in this new hall of fame. And then to consider all the scientific controversies which are often long and bitter and warlike. Are they to be forgotten? Why of course not. We would have to erect some sort of monument to them.

By the time we had finished there would be so many statues that someone would be sure to start a war to pull most of them down. Surely this worthy personage would deserve some niche in which at least a bust could be placed to commemorate this new war. And then of course there would be someone to start a verbal war as to whether this personage would really want a statue.

But why continue—the list is endless.

Failure.

"DID I fail?" This is a question which has been asked frequently around the campus in the course of the last week. The answer, we hope, has been in but a few cases been a decided "yes"; but we fear that here and there academic disaster has reared its ugly head and smitten down numbers of hopeful, if lazy, souls in failure.

Failure is a delicate subject and is recognized as such by students and staff alike. It is almost pathetic to hear a group of class mates trying to break the sad news gently to one of their fellows. There is a general reticence, a studied avoidance of the eyes, a feeling of sudden, awkward stiff, formality and a strong dislike to take the unpleasant initiative.

"Did I fail?" asks the unfortunate one, and the answer comes hesitatingly and reluctantly that "your name isn't on the list." There seems to be a tacit delicacy in these matters which taboos a blunt, direct, final and crushing "yes."

And this omission from the lists is the faculty's share in the amiable deception. In this respect we have sometimes admired superhuman forbearance which enables a professor to pass over in silence the shortcomings of members of his class who richly deserve public advertisement by the addition of a group of "failures" under the third class rating.

There are many students who would prefer to have their names listed in the failure class than to have them omitted altogether. There is something indefinite about an omission. The thought that one's paper was not read due to some accident or error will insist on recurring especially if one has been labouring under the delusion that one has written a highly academic, if not an altogether scholarly, examination. Failure, moreover, might carry with it automatically the right to receive back the examination books written and thus allow a candidate to profit by the correction of his original errors in subsequent supplements.

Prof. Maitre d'Hotel.
- 4) Mortal Statistics of Student Allowances. The cause of their rapid decline. Etymology of the "broke."
Dr. Easycome-Easygo and demonstrators.
- 5) The abnormal psychology of fraternities. Prerequisite: the Greek alphabet and a knowledge of whispering. Prof. Mumm.

It is always good to be careful as is attested by the following story.

At a dinner party Lord L... mentioned that an old lady, an acquaintance of his kept her books in detached book-cases, the male authors in one and the female in another. James Smith, co-author of the "Selected Addresses" remarked "I suppose her reason was that she did not want to increase her library."

Another Smith, the Rev. Sydney, was a celebrated wit. He used to say that the hams at his table were only true hams—the others were Shems and Japhets.

The Bishop of London had accepted an invitation to dine at a house where Sydney Smith was also present. The non-arrival of his lordship delayed the dinner, when at last a note reached the host to say that the Bishop had been bitten by a dog as he was entering London House, so that he must be excused. The note was read to the assembled guests when the witty Dean remarked that he should much like to hear the dog's account of the story.

Tall men are like high houses, wherein commonly the uppermost rooms are worst furnished.
—Lord Bacon.

"Thinking is an enemy to beauty and no friend to tenderness."
—W. S. Landor.

"My horse, sir. Why I'll wager it to stand still faster than yours can gallop."
—Samuel Foote.

SAMUEL ROGER's opinion of a friend's wife was thus expressed:
"The banditti wanted to carry off P... into the mountains, when he was in Italy, but his wife flung her arms around her husband's neck and rather than take her with them they let him go."

A contemporary of Roger's was William Cobbett who published an English grammar. In the section dealing with collective nouns the author remarks:
"It is wrong to say, Parliament is shamefully extravagant and they are returned by a gang of rascally borough mongers."

EVERYBODY has heard and enjoyed sometime a good Irishism. Here is one of the best I have heard and enjoyed for a long time.

Louis XIV asked Count Mahony, a celebrated Irish soldier, one day if he understood Italian "Yes, please Your Majesty," answered the Count, "if it was spoken in Irish."

Speaking of soldiers reminds me of an answer given by the Marquis de Jolras to one of his officers. This officer asked the general on the eve of a battle for permission to go and see his father, who was extremely ill, to render his services and receive his benediction. The general, who knew well the motive of this excuse, answered: "Go, honour thy father and mother that thy days may be long in the land."

Prose and Poetry

WHEN walking with his wife around Abbotsford Sir Walter Scott observed a number of ewes frolicking with lambs. "Ah," exclaimed Sir Walter, "tis no wonder that poets from earliest ages have made the lamb the emblem of peace and innocence."

"They are indeed delightful animals" returned Lady Scott "especially with mince sauce."

Habit is a curious thing as psychologists will tell you. It once embarrassed an eminent Parisian merchant, by the name of P. Coule. Having sign the extract of the baptism of one of his children, he signed, "Peter Coule and Company."

IN a review of Madame de Staël's "Allemagne" Heinrich Heine makes the following statement about women authors:

"When they write look with one eye to the paper and with the other on some man, and that is true of all women-writers with the exception of the Countess Hahn-Hahn who has only one eye."

Of a contemporary German writer, de la Motte Fouque, he says:

"He was a Don Quixote from head to foot; reading his works one admires Cervantes."

A famous traveller, whose name escapes at the moment, had traversed in one of his journeys

a wide extent of uncultivated regions. At last he saw a gallows looming in the distance, "the sight of which," he says, "gave me infinite pleasure, as it proved that I was in civilized country."

The subject of executions etc. reminds me of the fastidious criminal who told the warden to give him no starchy food in his last meal because starch is fattening.

From the Dumbville Register

"I hereby state the circulated report that I bought a book during my stay in the city is an infamous calumny."
—Jeremiah Hustler, mayor.

"Until further notice every vehicle must carry a light when darkness begins. Darkness begins when the lights are lit."
—Chief of police.

"Tomorrow, tomorrow will be to-day."

Dance hours at the University of Illinois must petition for tickets to the Military Ball which is yet a month off. Preference for tickets to the affair, which are selling at $4.40 per, is being given to seniors in the advanced military course. The advance demand for tickets prompted this action by the military department.

The Springfield Student gets all hot and bothered about traditions, "Alma Mater" songs, etc.

During a recent meeting of the traditions committee several adjustments were deemed not only proper but necessary. The outstanding change involved the substitution of the song "Tise a Song for Springfield" for the present "Alma Mater." It is the popular opinion of the students of Springfield that the present "Alma Mater" is too boisterous to represent the true nature of our "Alma Mater." They are indeed justified in their criticism. The introduction of the song is very select, but as the music progresses the words become less dignified until finally it reaches a state of cheering, shouting and raucous noise—our "Alma Mater!"

On the other hand "Tise a Song for Springfield" observes all the laws of a genuine "Alma Mater," it is beautiful in composition and sincere in theme and these are the two requisites for an "Alma Mater." An immediate change should be granted in recognition of the apparent facts and opinions which now exist in relation to the "Alma Mater" of Springfield, which when discarded as such, would make an excellent football song.

—They can't say that of our "Alma Mater," anyway.

She took my candy and my books,
She took that lustrous wrap of fur,
She took those gloves I bought for her,
She took my words of love and care,
She took my flowers rich and rare,
She took my time for quite a while,
She took my kisses—told so shy—
She took, I must confess, my eye;
She took whatever I would buy,
And then she took another guy.

At 1 o'clock today there will be a class meeting in the smoking room of the Art's Building. It is imp ratty that all members interested in debating should attend, as two debaters will be chosen to represent Arts '32 in the interclass debates. The members are asked to consider the matter carefully and come to the meeting with an idea as to whom they intend to nominate. Also the executive asks those men who are to debate next week to hand in their selection of subjects as early as possible.

Redmen Out to Avenge Former Loss to Flying Frenchmen; Home Game

COUPON NO. 18

ONCE again the big red team will be seen in action. In spite of their lowly defeat at Clarkson last Friday under trying conditions and an open-air rink where the ice sloped like the Laurentians, the McGill senior hockey squad will be out to show the fans that they can play hockey when they meet Canadien at the Forum to-night. This will be the second game of the evening of a regular doubleheader which will see Vics and U. of M. clash in the opener.

To-night's affair is another home game, and coupon no. 18 will admit McGill students to watch the red and white make a desperate effort to avenge a former loss at the hands of the Frenchmen earlier in the season. At that time, Lucien Brunet and his boys pulled a fast one over the red men when they rammed in three goals in the dying minutes of the third stanza, after McGill led 2 to 0 at the end of the second. It was a bitter loss, and the tonight's fans may be certain that the McGill seniors will do their all to erase their former hard luck defeat.

As things stand at present the red team has cast fear into the camp of every Senior Group club by their three surprising victories over Columbus, U. of M. and Vics. Canadien will not enter to-night's game overconfident, perhaps they will be praying for a win. Despite the Clarkson affair, Dr. V. Heney's squad should return to form after playing in the open air.

Macdonald Beat Commerce 29 to 21

Business Men Bow Before the Aggies Strong Defense

Commerce lost to the Macdonald college quintet by 29-21 in a fast game of basketball at St. Anne's Saturday. The late arrival of some of the members of the Commerce squad resulted in a 10 point lead for the Aggies in the first few minutes of the game. The score at half time was 15-3 for the home team. In the last frame the business men made a strong bid for the spoils but were fooled by the zone wall defense of the powerful Agricultural men. The Macdonald outfit succeeded in establishing an 8 point lead to win the game. The game was clean and fast, both teams going the limit. It was an exhibition game. The regular interfaculty schedule begins this week.

Coroner's Court

It is with regret indeed that we hear of the misfortune that several of our McGill squads met with over the week-end. The senior basketballers bowed to Queen's, thereby losing the league leadership. But it seems as if the cagemen had an off day, and they may be counted on to do their utmost to regain the top of the league.

Another loss that hit the McGill athletic camp hard was that of the senior puckmen who dropped a mediocre contest to Clarkson at Potsdam, N.Y., on Friday last. After starting the New Year with surprising victories, the red and white ice squad had their long string of successes broken in no uncertain manner.

The reason for this perhaps may be given by the fact that their trip was tedious and poorly arranged. Again the redmen played on an open rink, something out of the ordinary. It is to be hoped that when games are arranged in the future with teams below the border that a more careful study of the conditions will be made before it is too late.

WE wish to draw attention to the fact that there was some slip up, intentional or otherwise, with regard to the dressing-room facilities provided for the wrestlers of the Assault-at-Arms during the week-end. To tell the truth there was no facility. They.

A LITTLE CONSIDERATION the wrestlers, made out as best they could in the basement of the Union.

There was no security for their clothes while they were participating in their bouts. No provision was made for showers for the place was in darkness, with no lamp in the socket, and when one was eventually secured the wiring was defective. We think that if a man is worthy enough to uphold the name of his University in an intercollegiate event even though it be a minor, he is worthy of a little consideration in regard to dressing-room facilities.

HARD GAME AS "RED DEVILS" LOSE TO DRUMMONDVILLE

Ronald Rowat's All Star team picked from the McGill inter class hockey league journeyed out to Drummondville on Thursday evening, and took a beating by the tune of 5-2.

On arriving in the town the boys found that they were advertised as the "Red Devils" on flaming red and white posters. "Hi Joe—c'est ce soir de la plus grande partie de hockey etc." was the way the posters read, and they went on to the affect that this devilish team could be seen in action all for the price of a quarter.

The all star team failed to twinkle in the first period with the results that Drummondville ran in four goals. The red devils had never played as a team before, and were continually caught out of position. The Drummondville forward line have the best system of back-checking ever seen to date. With the assistance of the two referees they were able to completely cover the ice with poke checks, and if an opposing forward did manage to pass this barrier they neatly lifted his skates from the ice.

In the second period the red-devils got together with the result that Chard gave Hobbitt a beautiful pass which put him in position to score, and the aforementioned Mr. Chard decided to garner a tally for himself.

It was in this period that Chard accidentally hit one of the Drummondville defence men while falling from a trip. The defence man, who according to the natives had not lost his temper for high on to twenty years come this March, made a rush at the prostrate credit to How Hamlin. Chard however brought him to the ice with a flying tackle, and held him there till the police arrived on the scene. In the

Macdonald Enters Hockey League

The entrance of Macdonald College into the Inter-Class Hockey League, the new schedule of which is printed elsewhere in today's "Daily," is a new departure this year in this league.

Mac. will not compete for the title, nor will their games affect the standings of the teams they play—they are in for the sake of the game alone.

The Aggies are scheduled to play three games, meeting Science 3, Arts 3, and Med. 3, in the order named.

meantime the man's next of kin were being restrained from helping Daddy by the spectators.

"The Devils" started the third period two goals down, and kept up a constant attack on the Drummondville cage. The goalie was kicking them out from all sides, and it seems that he kicked one so far that it went right down the ice into the McGill net making the score 5-2. Anyway something like that must have happened because the Drummondville team were all lying across their goal mouth, and playing hide-and-go seek with the puck.

The McGill line-up was as follows:

Loke Meds. 4.

Chalmers Meds. 2.

Badminton Notes

The entry list for the tournaments has not been as big as was expected and it is hoped that many more will give in their names before tomorrow. Everyone is again reminded that the competition is open to all students and that anyone who knows anything at all about the game is welcome to enter. Tomorrow at one o'clock is the zero hour and all intending to enter must have their names in before then. Lists are posted in the Arts Building and in the Tuck-shop.

Due to the boxing-ring having been erected in the Union Ballroom, it has been impossible to play for the last few days. However the court will again be ready for use today.

Swimming

The following men are asked to be on hand this afternoon to swim in the handicaps against the team for the American trip. The medley relay will start at 5:15. Wilson, Brabander, Spencer, Cross, R. Shaw, Payton, Gilman, French, Southam, Dolg, Mercereau.

Redmen Lose To Queen's Squad In Basketball

Tricolor Take Lead in League Race By 25 to 19 Win Saturday

RECORD CROWD

A record-breaking crowd jammed its way into the High School gym on Saturday night to see Queen's take the end in the intercollegiate basketball circuit by defeating the McGill eagles 25 to 19. The Redmen's loss was a distinct surprise to the spectators. Queen's had been heralded as a strong aggregation before the game but few expected to see the Tricolor dominate the play to the extent that they did on Saturday.

Going into the second half at the short end of a 15 to 6 score the McGill basketballers unleashed a powerful rally which stopped the machine-like precision of the Limestone City outfit. The poor shooting of the locals however left them trailing in the score. With only a minutes and thirty-five seconds to play Don Young and Co. again staged a desperate rally which brought them within contending distance of their rivals. On three successive occasions Mel Rice managed to twine the hoop and as a result the Redmen were only six points behind.

The McGill rally was a little late for the sound of the pistol a few minutes later announced the end of the battle with Queen's to the fore.

There were no alibis. The playing of the Queen's quintette throughout the major part of the game left little doubt in the minds of the onlookers as to the final outcome of the fray.

The inimitable "Ike" Sutton was once again the power behind the Queen's play. His strategic leadership carried the Tricolor deep into McGill territory on numerous occasions to increase their margin of points. It was only in the latter frame that the McGill defence tightened up and kept the invading forwards out of the scoring zone.

The McGill captain, Don Young worked like a Trojan for the home-sters and engineered many smart plays that were wasted as a result of the inaccurate shooting. Both Faulkner and Small were so closely checked that they got little opportunity to net any points for the Red and White.

The loss leaves the McGill team one game behind the Tricolor. Next Thursday night the locals will entrain for Toronto to engage Varsity at Hart House and then leave for London where they are scheduled to meet the Mustangs on Saturday night.

McGill Seconds Play Well But Lose To "Y"

Talpis Missing From Line-up
Owing to Injury

FEIGENBAUM STARS

THE McGill City League basketballers dropped their fourth game in a row when they lost to the league-leading Y.M.H.A. seniors by the score of 29-22 in the preliminary to the inter-league tilt between McGill and Queens at the Montreal High gym on Saturday night.

While Y.M.H.A. won by a fairly comfortable margin, the score is not altogether indicative of the play. McGill played well but their shooting which has been in a slump for the last few games still stuck with them and had they been in fair shooting form the result would no doubt L. Feigenbaum have been reversed. Their passing was much improved over that of the past two weeks and often worked close to the only to miss easy shots. Bunny Talpis' absence was missed but Erskine played well despite his lack of experience. Feigenbaum, McGill guard, was easily the best man on the floor; his shooting and all-round play were excellent scored thirteen of his team's points. For the north enders Goldberg was the most impressive.

The game started fast but the scoring did not get under way until five minutes of play had elapsed when Holzberg, "Y" centre player scored on a neat combination play. This was all that was needed to start the fire-works and from that point the battle was a ding-dong affair, first one team and then the other taking the lead. The half ended with the "Y" quiet on the top end of the score, 12-10.

Both teams maintained a fast pace during the second half and only by dint of accurate shooting did Y.M.H.A. maintain their lead. While McGill worked well during this half they lost only because they failed to make their shots count. The final score was 29-22.

The line-ups were:—
McGill Forward Y.M.H.A.
Hammond Irel
Erskine Schlenker
Centre
Sellar Holzberg
Guard
Ross Bloomfield
Feigenbaum Cummings
Sub.
Stewart Goldberg

BOOK EXCHANGE READY TO PAY

Tomorrow afternoon from two-thirty until five-thirty, and Wednesday from four until six p.m. the Book Exchange will be open in the basement of the Union to make payments to creditors. This will be the last opportunity for students who are owed money by the Exchange to collect their dues.

It is absolutely necessary that receipts for books be brought in order to claim cash. The following list contains the names of those who are owed money from the January and October sales as well as a few creditors who failed to put in an appearance last year.

In his American tour he was too vague in his description of the salient aspects of the Empire. Until recent years we have been inclined to say that there were no problems connected with the Commonwealth. But there are several problems which will loom up in the future. There has been a slackening of enthusiasm for the Commonwealth due to the development of nationalism in the Dominions. In Australia we notice indifference and even opposition.

"The most urgent problem is in India which Morley called the true British Empire. Gandhi during Xmas week at Lahore moved a resolution for proclaiming a boycott. The Labour government placated the Nationalists by declaring that Dominion status was the natural development for India. Notwithstanding this conciliation, Gandhi has been manoeuvred into an extreme position by his followers, a position which is disagreeable to him for he knows that revolutionary activity is inseparable from violence. Since Gandhi is the leader of the non-violent movement consultation with the British government is the best way to open. We have in Lord Irwin a conservative statesman in sympathy with India and with Gandhi. He is a deeply religious man whose speech is readily understood by Gandhi and his followers. A belief in the wider Commonwealth is part of our religion but unless we include India the idea will not exist to justify itself.

illustrate and confirm his theory. It relates how he had been cruelly insulted by an extremely large backwoodsman who was satisfied that he would not dare to answer back. Pond produced pistols as a means of propitiation of his name. "The poor fellow was unfortunate," Pond briefly describes the duel.

Populate Manitoba
The speaker outlined Lord Selkirk's move to populate Manitoba. Selkirk continued buying interests in the Hudson's Bay Company, until in 1811 he obtained a grant of 10,000 acres where he placed his Scotch settlers. The movement was opposed by McGillroy and colleagues whose object it was to prevent the land becoming inhabited and thus driving off the game.

Conner Wins 2 Skating Events

Speed Skaters Show Good Form in Preparation for Intercollegiate Meet

COACH OPTIMISTIC

THE third skating meet of the season was run off last Saturday afternoon. H. Conner of Sci. II won the 410 for speed skates in 47 seconds. He was closely followed by G. Kyle and J. B. Normington, who were only a second or two behind. The 440 for short skates was won by J. G. Hutchison, who did the lap and a half in 48 seconds. As this time is only one second longer than that of Conner, who had the advantage of speed skates, close competition is certain to be chosen between all of these boys.

The two mile event was also won by Conner who has been training hard during the last week, and has picked up a lot of speed since the last meet. Accordingly Kyle, Normington and several others, not yet being in the best of form, were somewhat outdistanced by him. The coach said that the time was very good, and when the other boys pick up a little speed, with training, the New Hampshire competitors will have to step lively at the Manoir Richelieu if they want to keep their title.

Loose and bulky clothes affected the times in all the races, particularly in the two mile event. To remedy this fault, all the skaters should see Mr. Burridge at the Athletic Office, as soon as possible, where he shall supply them with skating tights. Also skaters who have not yet procured skates are advised to see the Athletic Office immediately, as only two or three pairs are left.

The coach Mr. Roughton, who has had over twenty years experience in speed skating circles, was out to time the boys. He was very pleased with the showing they made, and has high hopes for the team and its chances this winter.

does not deny the ability of science. He closed by saying that "if you can understand how literature is taught you can get some meaning of the miracle. A flash comes from the page which is not words. Knowledge of literature is not always directly acquired, but sometimes by enthusiasm passed on. We live and see what someone else has seen, through their minds to the author's". The same, he said, can be applied to science and reality.

The chairman of the meeting was "Chuck" Stewart, secretary of the McGill S.C.A., former student under Dr. Brown. The speaker dealt with the critical questions of the audience in a scholarly manner.
